Presidents'

Part I: Sara Delano Roosevelt to Hannah Milhous Nixon (N) Thursday, February 13,

(N) Thursday, March 13,

It is said that behind every successful man is a woman. In the case of American presidents this maxim is especially true, and the woman is not necessarily his wife. From the domineering interference of Sara Delano Roosevelt, to the humanitarian ideals of Lillian Carter, this program will explore the relationships and influences these women had in shaping the personalities of American presidents from FDR to Clinton. Join American history educator Martha Kolodkin for this fascinating glimpse into the lives and personalities of the women who raised extraordinary sons. No registration required.

100 Years of Adornment

Before tossing out Grandma's baubles, bangles, and beads, take an exciting tour of the wonderful world of antique, vintage, and collectible adornments. From the somber reign of Queen Victoria through the sizzling sixties presided over by Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, vintage jewelry dealer Jessica Ley will highlight the societal, economic, and political influences in each historic period. You are welcome to bring along one item of jewelry for assessment. Tickets for 15 verbal evaluations will be given out on a first-come, first-served basis at the program. No registration required.

Island was like for its native inhabitants SCAA is a nonprofit organization that promotes the understanding of Long Island history and archaeology, both historic and prehistoric. Under the guidance of Museum Director Gaynell Stone and Museum Program Coordinator Laurie Billadello, SCAA operates two Suffolk County sites where programs that instruct school and other groups about native and colonial life are conducted.

Student visitors to SCAA's Long Island Culture History Lab and Museum (located at the Town of Smithtown's Hoyt Farm Park in Commack) learn about the phases of Native life on Long Island, beginning with the end of the ice age and leading up to the contact period. The specialized learning center features a vast collection of artifacts and beautifully painted murals. Also on the property are two life-size wigwams, an outdoor cooking fireplace, and a colonial archaeological site. This month SCAA will be bringing its Native Life Programs to the Library for our young patrons to
