

THE LIBRARY

January 1994

"Our library buildings are inadequate now and for the future."

— Ruth McKay, Chairperson,
Library Board of Trustees

"The only decision that has been made is the decision to recommend, after considerable public discussion, a proposal for our buildings which will insure good library services now and in the future at a reasonable cost to all of us."

— Michael L. Glennon,
Building Committee Chairperson

The Library Board of Trustees has announced that on Tuesday, January 18, from 4:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m., Library Director Mrs. Stephanie Heineman and Assistant Director Eileen Minogue will be answering your calls on the "Call In Lines" regarding questions and concerns about the library space needs and building problems. Patrons should use the following telephone numbers: 261-6686 or 261-6694. Questions that patrons would like addressed by trustees will be noted and forwarded. A second "Call In" night will be announced in February. Can't call during these designated call-in times? Of course, you can call at any other time that the library is open.

A Progress Report from Your Library Board of Trustees

(This is a reprint of the letter mailed to every household on December 6, 1993.)

Dear Neighbor,

Would you please take a moment from this busy holiday season to reflect on your community library, a treasure for all seasons?

As residents of Northport-East Northport we all depend on our library as a valuable asset for educational advancement, independent study, and information for daily living and as a cultural and recreational resource for the entire community.

In the Board's role as library planners, seven years ago we initiated a study of the libraries' space needs. We concluded that the existing library buildings were inadequate presently and for the future. Limited physical space is at the heart of our present library facilities' shortcomings, although lack of available space was not the sole reason for examining the physical facilities. Energy efficiency and the condition of the heating, ventilating, and air conditioning systems, accessibility by the disabled, and adaptability to meet the electrical and telecommunications requirements of current library technologies were other reasons we examined the structures that house our libraries.

We have, since 1991, been educating the community to the recognized benefits of a single central library. The construction of a central library would have been dependent, of course, upon the availability of an appropriate site. Our community of nearly 36,000 people is spread out and heavily developed. In reality, few sites with the desirable combination of convenience, accessibility, size, topography, and availability are to be found. In fact, 9 sites have been looked at and evaluated by the Board and our consultants for a central library over a period of 6 years.

Most recently, a surplus parcel owned by the Department of Transportation at Maplewood Drive and Laurel Hill Road across from the Northport High School was identified as being available as a possible site for a central library. This fall, at meetings with residents of this area, strong objections were expressed over what they considered the negative impact locating the library on this vacant land would have. This same event prompted many residents from other areas to voice strong support for maintaining a neighborhood library in each community. Our mission — to serve our patrons — is the foundation for seeking a solution to your library buildings' problems. We, therefore, withdrew our interest in the Maplewood Drive property. Because our problems are so pressing we have decided to halt our search for a central library site and redirect our efforts.

A Letter from the Editor

Your library newsletter begins the New Year with a new look.

Traditionally, your newsletter has been the source for information about upcoming programs, a calendar with highlights on some of the library's new services and resources.

This won't change. We just plan to tell you more — more about the collection, the services, the sources, the staff, the space constraints, the solutions. Your newsletter now takes a closer look at the library. On the cover of this January 1994 issue, we debut our new banner logo, THE LIBRARY. In each issue, we will keep you up to to date on any building news. This month, we also introduce our "Call In" lines. Take a look inside THE LIBRARY for more informational columns and features. "Library Close Up" will profile your library in the community. In our "Bright Idea Box" we hear from you. Each month, we'll share one of your bright ideas with all our patrons. Maybe we can arrive at solutions together.

From concept to content to final proof, the newsletter is a team effort by four librarians — our Library Director, Assistant Director, our desktop publisher, and myself. First we review our programs and services for the forthcoming issue. We work on the layout, choose the graphics, and write and rewrite. We strive to catch your attention by paying attention to the details of language and design. We have much to tell you. Our goal is to produce a newsletter that you will want to read from cover to cover.

Your library is the community's information and cultural hub. I hope that you continue to enjoy reading THE LIBRARY as much as we enjoy presenting it to you. However, the information in your newsletter cannot begin to describe the library as well as a visit. So stop in and see us and let us hear from you — fill in one of our "News Survey" forms available in both buildings and tell us "Why you came to the library today."

Sincerely,

Nancy J. Kruse

In Our Bright Idea Box

Asking for your "bright ideas" is not a new idea. In fact, we've been reading your bright ideas since mid-1990 and have kept all of them on file. While not all have immediate solutions, many of them have prompted improvements. For example, we now have thirst-quenching water coolers in both buildings, umbrella stands to hold your rainy-day apparatus, and a separate "Bygone Bestsellers" section. We've also done some creative space stretching to accommodate bulging fiction shelves by installing shelving under the mezzanine steps in Northport. Each month THE LIBRARY will feature one of your ideas.

What's on your mind is important to us. We look forward to hearing from you In Our Bright Idea Box. Thank you.

THIS AWARD IS PRESENTED TO

NAME Mrs. Marie Beckman

IN RECOGNITION OF

A BRIGHT IDEA

Seniors (I know I'm one) who have to use "Large Print" books — the two bottom shelves are impossible to reach. I know space is at a premium, but there has to be a solution. Thank you.

We pay attention. We listen hard.
Let us turn your bright idea into action!

Yes, space is at a premium! However, when Mrs. Beckman and I spoke, we both agreed that because there's no storage for books it is better to continue using the two bottom shelves than to shrink the large-type collection. If ever you have difficulty reaching materials please ask a librarian for assistance.

*Very truly yours,
Mrs. Stephanie Heineman
Library Director*

Taking this new direction, we have asked the library director, Mrs. Stephanie Heineman, to secure for consideration preliminary information and cost estimates for the following options:

1. a program of capital improvements, i.e., all necessary repairs, including modifications for the disabled at both the Northport and East Northport buildings.
2. a renovation and expansion of the East Northport building, including parking.
3. a renovation and expansion of the Northport building, including parking.
4. the construction of an East Northport Branch Library on the Pulaski Road property given to the Library by the Gildersleeve family.

In brief, the Library Board is now exploring a number of possibilities. The only decision that has been made is the decision to recommend, after considerable public discussion, a proposal for our buildings which will insure good library services now and in the future at a reasonable cost to all of us.

We invite you to these Board discussions which will continue to take place at public meetings at the Library. We also encourage you to stay informed by reading your monthly library newsletter. The Board's next progress report to the community will summarize the analysis of potential expansion options. Finally, we remind you that no decision can be made without approval by you, the taxpayers of the community.

Thank you for your continued interest and support of the Library. Please let us hear your comments.

Very truly yours,
