Beginnings:

The Northport-East Northport Public Library's story began in 1880 with the founding of the Northport Literary and Social Union in the First Presbyterian Church's basement. According to its constitution, the Union aspired to "promote the literary culture of its members and to organize a library." Although its main activity was to host weekly debates, the Union also moved quickly to establish its library.

A library committee was in place by 1883 and during this year books were purchased, a librarian appointed, and a reading room opened in the Northport Journal building

In 1888 the Union moved into a larger space in the Union Opera House on Union Place. It then incorporated and renamed itself the Northport Literary and Library Union.

— EXHIBITS —

Northport Gallery:

Impressions: The Monoprint by Joan Fahey Joan Fahey explores the monoprint as it reects a personal, emotional approach to imagery. The prints in this exhibit have been produced by creating an image with oil paints on a sheet of plexiglass. The image is then covered with dampened print paper and run through the press. Joan Fahey has exhibited ex tensively throughout Long Island and her works can be found in many private collections.

Transformations: Polaroid Transfers & Emulsion Lifts by Daniel Cleary

The artistic vision of Northport artist Dan Cleary re ects his deep appreciation for the natural world. His transfers are made by developing a slide onto Polaroid film. The image is then transferred onto watercolor paper. The end result gives a painterly quality to the work. Mr. Cleary will discuss his exhibit on Monday evening, January 26 (see page 3).
