“Clang, Clang, Clang Went The Trolley”

Northport Library is pleased to present an exhibit featuring the Northport Historical Society and Museum. “Clang, Clang, Clang Went the Trolley” celebrates the 100th year anniversary of Northport’s own trolley line which began service between Main Street and the East Northport train station on April 17, 1902. The trolley traveled three miles in twelve minutes with fourteen designated stops, and cost a nickel one way. The single-track line had several switching places where two cars traveling in opposite directions would meet and pass. There was a trolley barn on Woodbine Avenue for the two passenger trolleys and one freight car. At one time, there was a plan to connect Northport’s trolley line to Huntington, but World War I began and the connection was never made. The trolley operated successfully until 1924 when the last trolley car ran to East Northport where it was hoisted aboard a derrick car and shipped to parts unknown. The trolley tracks, some of which remain on Main Street in Northport to this day, are a visible reminder of our historic village’s past. The Museum Cove exhibit begins September 8 and continues until the end of December. The display will include photographs from 1902-1924, trolley-related items such as tickets and trolley spikes, and toys and memorabilia from Northport during the early twentieth century.
