"Read to Your Bunny Often and Your Bunny Will Read to You!"

The most important thing in the first years of life is the growth of the mind and spirit. This is when a child learns to love and trust, to speak and listen. Parents who read to their children are giving of themselves, of their time. By not saying, "I'm too tired. I'm too busy. I want to do something else," they are giving their voice, their patience, and more important than anything, they are giving pure love. Reading to your little one is just like putting gold coins in the bank. It will pay you back tenfold. Your daughter will learn, and imagine, and be strong in herself. Your son will thrive, and give your love back forever. So read to your bunny often and your bunny will read to you.

Excerpted from remarks by Rosemary Wells

A special collection of the works of Rosemary Wells can be found in the East Northport Children's Room. These books and more can be found in both libraries.
