"When I Give I Give Myself"

Walt Whitman

The Greeks defined philanthropy as loving humanity. All of us experience the philanthropy of others as we walk through the Libraries at Northport and East Northport. The polished granite countertops of the circulation desks, the grapevine wreath, the flourishing plants and weekly flower arrangements, the endearing bear sculpture, the crewelwork sampler of the old East Northport Library, the fabric painting of the new East Northport Library, the children's Imagination Center and Friendship Seating, the framed Ramona poster, the outdoor flower pots at East Northport, the classic books-on-tape collection, our American flags. These are just some of the many contributions made to the Library. We thank all of those whose gifts make these buildings warm and personal spaces that are welcoming and central to the life of the community. It takes a village to raise a child; it takes a community to create a library.

FOR YOUNG ADULTS

Speaking of Writing

Author Visit

M.E. Kerr, 1993 recipient of the Margaret A. Edwards Award for her lifetime achievement in writing for young adults, pays her third visit to the Library’s Speaking of Writing Program on May 20, 1999. Kerr is one of many honored Young Adult authors—among them Walter Dean Myers, Richard Peck, and Caroline B. Cooney—who have come to the Library’s Community Room in May to speak about writing.

Ms. Kerr will speak to a packed audience of students selected from the district’s middle schools. Kerr will autograph copies of her books which the students read before attending the program. This popular program is eagerly awaited by these students.

Ms. Kerr, a Long Islander living in East Hampton, sees a real distinction in writing for young adults, who are concerned with the basics of making and losing friends and wondering what to do with their lives. Kerr says, "My job as a writer of books for young people is to entertain them, hoping they will want to come back for more."

New York State Honors Veterans with Special Publication

The New York State Assembly has published a comprehensive bibliography of print and online resources entitled How It Was: The Tears and Triumphs of Men and Women at War. Produced with the assistance of the New York State Library, this valuable resource for adults and children is available at both the Northport and East Northport Libraries.

Books, Bytes & Beyond 1999

When M.E. Kerr appears at the Library, she will meet the Library’s YA Book Reviewers. Their compilation of reviews, Books, Bytes and Beyond 1999, is published to coincide with her visit. Hard-working reviewers William Brennan, Marisa Glashow, Brian Hartough, Justin Hartough, Katie Higgins, Danny Hyun, Jerilyn Libby, Caitlin Morrissey, Kate Parmenter, Danielle Saudino, Elena Spuhler, and James Worsdale will be guests at a lunch in the Library with Ms. Kerr.

New York State Young Boaters License Course

(N) Mondays, June 7, 14, 21 & 28, 7:00-9:00 p.m.

New York State and the Town of Huntington require boat operators ages ten through eighteen to possess a NYS Young Boaters License. YA Services offers the official boating safety course conducted by the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary. Upon successful completion of this eight-hour course, you will receive the official certificate, identification, and patch from the auxiliary. The course and license include the now mandatory instruction on the use of personal watercraft.

Young boaters should register for this free program beginning May 18 at the Northport Library. Registration is limited and district residents are given preference.
Toilet Learning
(EN) Monday, May 10, 7:30 p.m.
Is your child ready to begin toilet learning? Parent educator Leah Dombroff from the Cornell Cooperative Extension will present an informative program on this topic. Registration begins May 3 at the East Northport Library.

May Day Festivities
(N) Saturday, May 22, 10:00 a.m.
Children ages 4 and up will celebrate spring customs from around the world. Our program will begin in the Museum Cove and culminate outside with a maypole dance. Registration begins May 8 at the Northport Library.

Internet Access Available in Children’s Services
Access to the Internet through the Library’s new Youth Services home page is now available in the Children’s Services Department. Children and parents must complete the Internet Access Agreement Form in person in either the East Northport or Northport Children’s Room in order to use the Internet at the Library. You may also access our Youth Services page from home at anytime. Please see a Children’s Librarian for details.

Rosemary Wells dedicates Streets of Gold
Rosemary Wells’ new book, Streets of Gold, is based on the actual journal of twelve-year-old Mary Antin, who emigrated from Russia to Boston in 1894. Drawing upon Mary’s account, Rosemary Wells dramatically illuminates the sorrow of leaving behind the familiar—family, language, customs—and the joy of becoming part of a new world. Illustrator Dan Andreasen’s paintings capture the contrasts between Mary’s old home and her new one, heightening our understanding of both her struggles and her remarkable achievement.

Rosemary Wells has dedicated Streets of Gold to Jacqueline Herchenroder, Children’s Librarian, in whose memory the Rosemary Wells Collection is also dedicated. On Wednesday, May 26, 7:30 p.m., at the East Northport Library, Rosemary Wells will read from Streets of Gold. The Friends of the Library will have autographed copies of Streets of Gold for purchase as well as other popular titles by Rosemary Wells, including her Yoko, McDuff, and Max books.

The Northport-East Northport Public Library has been designated as one of several sites nationwide to exhibit the International Board on Books for Young People (IBBY) 1998 Honour List. The exhibit can be seen in the Museum Cove at the Northport Library throughout the month of May.

The International Board on Books for Young People Honour List is a biennial selection of outstanding, recently published books honoring writers, illustrators and translators from 62 member countries. The 1998 Honour List includes 119 books in 30 different languages: 47 books are honored for writing, 38 for illustration, and 34 for translation. The books included in the exhibit represent the best in children’s literature from each member country.

To complement the IBBY Honour List Exhibit, the Library will display a collection of international literary character dolls from the collection of Grace Hanley, a member of the IBBY U.S. National Section.

The public is invited to a reception to highlight the IBBY Honour List Exhibit which will be held at the Northport Library on Thursday, May 6 at 7:30 p.m.
