"A Community Treasure" The Tile Mural of Old East Northport

"We cared enough about our past to memorialize it," said Library Board of Trustees chairperson Michael Glennon in his May 14th dedication speech for the Tile Mural of Old East Northport. Other community residents have expressed similar feelings about the color-filled, primitive art mural designed and executed by East Northport artist Esther Tollen:

The Tile Mural of Old East Northport

Extraordinary! Lovely! We should all be reminded of our heritage in such a beautiful way. — Deborah Roberts

The artist has really captured the rural quality of Old East Northport. I'm very pleased! — Alyce Louise Woods

I'm so proud to have my late husband's name alongside this beautiful, colorful mural. It brings joy to my spirit. — Claire Rocco

What a beautiful display of tiles. I loved seeing my dear Dad's name as part of it. — Cynthia Petrone

The Tile Mural of Old East Northport was supported by donations from individuals, families, and groups whose names became part of the project on tiles placed on the two adjacent walls of the East Northport fireplace. Many donations were made in honor or memory of loved ones.

Resident Ely Roll's comments sum up the feelings of many in the community when she wrote "You have enriched all of us with the beauty of your mural and added another dimension to East Northport becoming a cohesive community in its own right."

The Library's Millennium Bookball Sculpture in Northport provides community members with another opportunity to support an artistic project while commemorating the new millennium. For further information, see page 2 of this newsletter.

Tile plaques on both sides of the Library fireplace show the names of those individuals, families, and groups who contributed to the project.
